THE VOTE IS THE THING THAT COUNTS.

A Government which returns is considered certain suffers infidelity in an election through the confidence of the public that they will be returned. And the stronger and more general the feeling of confidence that they will be re-elected the more they are liable to suffer from the cause. Private business must be attended to and election day as on every other, and the busy man is tempted to think that when this side is practically certain of winning there will be no danger in his remaining away from the polls and no particular reason why he should use the time to vote. The return of the Rutherford Government has never been doubted by the public generally since the campaign began, and for long before it, for that matter. The conviction that they will go to power has grown with the progress of the campaign. This means that on Monday candidates supporting the Government are more than ordinarily likely to lose votes through the confidence of their friends and supporters that they will be elected. This at present is the only apparent danger to the Government and western provinces on Monday by a splendid majority.

It is the business of every elector favorable to the Government to do what he can to prevent this confidence becoming over-confidence. First he should poll his own votes, and second, he should do what he can to get like-minded voters to go to the polls also. An elector who votes and the polls are closed, and it is the contents of the ballot boxes, not the mental approval or disapproval of the public, that makes or unseats a Government. However great a voter's sympathy with the Government cause it counts for nothing in the practical result unless he puts it in the box in the form of a ballot properly marked. The supporter of the Government who is trusted on Monday to count the votes from the polls because he thinks the cause is sure to win whether he goes or not should remember that a large number of electors are likely to fear the same way, and that if enough of them figure that way the Government is lost. The only way to make victory certain is to vote, and certainly the poorest of all reasons for neglecting to do what one can to make it certain is the belief that it is certain.

R. B. BENNETT VERSUS CALGARY.
If Edmonton carried its political opinions out of the cloth of self-interest it would have nothing to fear from the return of Mr. R. B. Bennett in Calgary.

If Medicine Hat's political views depended on the amount of bonds it got, or was likely to get from the Provincial treasury it would hire contractors to campaign in Calgary on Mr. Bennett's behalf.

If Lethbridge and Macleod placed their faith in the arguments that are being used for the election of Mr. Bennett in Calgary they would hold up both hands for the return of that gentleman to the Legislative Assembly.

If the rivals of Calgary showed the lofty ideals for which the Calgary electors are being begged and begged to vote, they would look for the return of Mr. Bennett as the hart punts after the water-buck.

The return of Mr. R. B. Bennett would be notice to the Government that Calgary has all the votes and equipment it wants, that it rests with complete and perfect satisfaction in the pool works wrought for it by the beneficence of the C. P. R. and that it wants the solicitor of that company exiled to the place where he can least headle the company line that threaten to invade its precincts.

The return of Mr. R. B. Bennett would be notice to the Government that the seven per cent. of the population of the Province resident in Calgary, among whom sixteen per cent. of the public funds have been spent, thought they could get more from a man of the Government than from a man of the Opposition.

The causes for which R. B. Bennett stands are the cause for which Calgary has nothing to hope and everything to fear. The cause against which he stands is the cause that holds the Calgary of the realizing its possibilities and holding its own in the face of a commercial supremacy.

If the "corporation connections" with and for whom R. B. Bennett stands had their way Calgary would be the least of the C. P. R. lines. If they did not have their way it will not be because R. B. Bennett has cast a good fight on their behalf against the known and obvious interests of the city he professes to regard with affection.

THE CAMPAIGN.

If the Government applied to Calgary the argument that is applied against the Government by the corporation connections and their associates, Calgary would never see a dollar of public money while R. B. Bennett is in the Assembly.

If the rivals of Calgary worshipped at the shrine of the leaves and fishes they would go down into their respective pockets for considerable to have Calgary elect a champion of railway monopoly and an opponent of the Rutherford Government.

Locally the Campaign Act is engaging most attention. This is particularly so as the author of the measure is a candidate in this constituency. It is significant none the less that the measure has not aroused the hostility elsewhere that is being expressed for considerable to have Calgary elect a champion of railway monopoly and an opponent of the Rutherford Government.

The Journal on Monday assailed the Government because the Act does not include farm laborers and declares that the reason for this is that the farmers are more numerous than the urban laborers, and that the farmers do not want the Act to apply to their property. This reminds one forcibly of the temperance advocates who held the liquor traffic guilty of upholding the responsible government. The burden of the argument was that government was not just what the people wanted them to do in the matter of liquor legislation, instead of doing what he wanted them to do regardless of what the people thought or wanted. The degree of anxiety the Journal possesses for the safety of the workmen is fairly reflected in this. For if a government legislated against what the farmers of this Province want the fate of that government would not long be in doubt. And if one government were selected because they passed a compensation act the workmen may turn out for themselves how long it would be before any other government would be foolish enough to tamper with the question. The Journal on its own evidence would have been pleased to see the Government couch the act in such form that they would have been informed over and the whole movement to establish workmen's insurance thereby paralyzed for years.

Perhaps the most frequent argument leveled against the measure is that the liability of the employee is indefinite in the case of an employee permanently disabled through accident. Owing to this indefiniteness some employees who have been disabled through accident insurance and demand that the act be immediately repealed or amended. If the inability to get insurance were established there would be a valid claim of hardship. But the new act has been in operation less than three months. In introducing a phase of insurance new to this Province and to which the company has not had time to adjust their business. The reply of the Attorney General is that the measure should be tried for a year, until it is seen whether the insurance companies which handle this kind of insurance can be secured to cover the whole liability, that the employees are being hastily used, that enterprises are being checked or handicapped, but that the Government is not undertaking to get them such insurance by some means or other. But as far the act has not been in operation long enough to judge accurately whether the companies will or will not be able to handle the work of the act without the need for amendment or repeal being shown would be to conclude an unbecomingly premature.

If it would be notice to all and sundry that if they were displeased with any measure passed in future all they would have to do is to vote it down at the polls and it would be changed to suit their convenience whether their contentions had been proven well founded or not.

It is proposed that if insurance companies should object to the proposed law should go into the insurance industry, establishing a fund to which the Government, the employers and the employees should contribute. If no other means were available some scheme would be unavoidable, though by the Government and the employees should contribute to the fund it should be difficult to ascertain. Whether they do so, or whether the whole amount of the fund were put up by the employers would amount to the same in the end—the money in the long run would come from the public. There is an advantage, though in putting the responsibility on the employer as much as possible. The greater his responsibility the greater he will be to insure and avoid accidents; the less his responsibility the more likely he will be to charge the cost of the insurance to the employee. It is money in his pocket to take measures to preserve the safety of his employees. He will of course charge the cost of insurance to the man who buys his produce and in so doing will make a good round allowance for the cost of the insurance.

The more precautions he takes to safeguard his employees the more of this additional money taken to insure the public he can retain, because the insurance cost will be proportioned to the number of accidents and the amount of damages that have to be paid. Whether the insurance business is carried on by the company or by the Government. The purpose of the measure is to prevent accidents. The more it is made to the interest of the employer to guard against accidents the more he will be to the purpose secured. He is the man in position to prevent accidents and preventive measures can be effectively carried out only through his agency. The more there is in it for him, the more likely he is to adopt precautionary measures.

ALWAYS ON THE JOB.

The Provincial railway policy has disturbed the security of the Senate chamber at Ottawa. Senator Perley who shares with Senator Loughheed the distinction of guarding the C. P. R. interests in that body, asked the other day:

What resources has the Government of Alberta got that will justify them in guaranteeing interest on the Government's bonds to the extent of fifty-seven million dollars, when what property has the Government of Saskatchewan on which they can guarantee the interest on bonds for any purpose.

Senator Edwards very promptly and properly reprimanded this indirect slap at the standing of this Province by inquiring, "What right this House has to interfere with domestic matters in any of our various provinces."

Mr. Richard Cartwright also took him in hand and reminded him that the senators had something else to do than make disparaging allusions as to the financial standing of the provinces. He said—

I may say that the Government of the Dominion is not in the position, required or empowered to interfere with the financial standing of the various provinces may be in dealing with matters within their jurisdiction, and I do not think that this House which is, in a special sense, the guardian of the rights of the several provinces, would be disposed to advise that the Government should attempt to interfere. We have no means of ascertaining the point the hon. gentleman desires to be informed upon.

Whatever may have been Senator Perley's purpose, his query is a thinly disguised sneer at the credit of the Province; and being such the public will credit him with the purpose of desiring to heap difficulties in the way of the competing companies with the hope of that capital will be built into the preserve of the C. P. R. Fortunately for the West, it has grown beyond the condition when it could be substantially injured by the slanders of Senator Perley and his type. But that it has done so is not their own doing. Nor are the efforts of the Government to be suspended because the task is less easy than formerly—witness Senator Perley's attempt to wedge in a speech that could have been used by the C. P. R. financiers in London to block the bond sales of the competing companies.

LOCALS.

At the Baptist church on Sunday evening Rev. J. C. Bowen will preach the first of a series of five Sunday evening sermons on "Some Plain Truths for the Times on Christianity." The address of the first sermon will be "The Coming Kingdom."

At the Strathcona Curling rink yesterday morning in the play-off of the championship in section one for the Dominion cup, E. H. Douglas defeated Rev. J. C. Bowen 15 to 10. Mr. Douglas now plays J. H. McMahon and the winner will play G. W. Marshall in the final two.

Rev. Mr. Rueland, Strathcona, the pastor of the Lutheran church on Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Mr. Rueland has resigned his pastorate of the German Lutheran church in Strathcona after four and a half years service and will enter upon his duties as superintendent of the church for the Lutheran church in Western Canada.

On Wednesday last W. J. Sutherland, of Rabbit Hill, made a ghastly discovery on going to the farm of his neighbor, George Day. Entering the stable of the latter he found him lying dead in one of the stalls. Constable Hooton, Strathcona, was summoned, and as it was apparent that death was due to heart disease in the victim, no further investigation was deemed necessary.

The basement of the new Holy Trinity church will be opened for service on Sunday, March 28th. Special services of which details will be given, will be held.

21 YEARS AGO TODAY

(Taken from the files of the Edmonton Bulletin, Saturday, March 21, 1883.)

Winters this morning.

Stagnant in town are getting dry.

Cattle and horses have been feeding on all winter.

For Peter Leduc is still suffering greatly from rheumatic fever.

The bridge at St. Albert is being put in order to meet the spring run of ice.

J. W. Shanks returned from a freighter trip to Lac la Poudre, Colorado.

Protestants plan to hold a meeting in the city hall on Monday.

Partial eclipse of the sun on Monday forenoon. Sooty glow at a previous.

The weather was quite clear and the eclipse could be easily observed.

On Thursday the thermometer in Ham Hill registered 13 degrees and in Leduc 16 below, while at Edmonton it was 41 above. How is that for British Columbia.

The Indian department shipped 16,000 pounds of flour to Peace Hills and 16,000 pounds to Riviere Qui Barre on Friday.

Joseph Macdonald saw six geese at the Pigeon Creek on Sunday last and a number of ducks were seen at St. Albert on Wednesday.

J. P. Wadsworth, inspector of Indian agencies, estimates the Lac la Poudre for trade of last year as amounting to over $36,000.

A horse race took place on Main street on Friday afternoon between J. Loo's and C. Stewart's dwelling to Brown & Curry's place. Loo's horse took the stakes, $5 a side.

A school house is being built in the Indian reserve on Stuart Highway. The department has agreed to give $300 a year towards a teacher's salary.

The land at the Two Hills are applying for similar assistance. If the large sum mentioned on industrial schools had been spent in supplying educational facilities to the bands on their reserves it would have been more satisfactory to the Indians and have produced better results.

St. Patrick's day (Thursday) was kept at St. Albert by a number of the Irish residents of the district. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Felix Grandin of St.

Joseph's church, Edmonton. Rev. Peter Leduc delivered a discourse on the life of the saint appropriate to the occasion. Several cattle have died suddenly and mysteriously in this district lately. In apparent perfect health at night they were found dead in the stable or yard in the morning. Immediately after death they seemed greatly exhausted. Examination made in some cases but nothing was discovered. Most of the animals were cows and were in good condition.

There was a lively discussion at the meeting of the Literary Society on Thursday evening. The literary program included readings by D. Ross, "Mr. Spence's making a man," by T. H. Brown, "Providence," by J. E. H. Graham, "Chamberlain," from Mark Twain, by Miss Ross, "Mr. Claude is Made a Man," by Mrs. D. Ross, and two songs by C. O'Leary. Excellent music was furnished by the vocalists, the readings by W. S. H. and the violin, and the piano by H. White on the piano.

It was decided that the subject of the debate at the next meeting should be "Resolved that the works of nature are more beautiful to contemplate than those of art." Affirmative E. Falterson, J. P. French, and T. Laidlaw; negative, E. F. Michael, P. V. Gaudreau and J. Ross.

A meeting of the directors of the agricultural society was held in the school house, Edmonton, on Saturday last. Present were Mr. McCulloch, president; G. Gaudreau, vice-president; and D. Macdonald, E. McKenna, G. H. Long, J. R. O'Connell, G. Sanderson and W. G. Sanderson, directors and W. S. H. secretary-treasurer.

RUSSIA HAS PAID UP.

Capt. Conn Returns a Victoria With Russia's Money.

Victoria, B. C., March 19.—Capt. W. H. Cope, former volunteer, who has returned here after an absence of thirteen years, is in receipt of the award of over $25,000 from the Russian government in settlement for the claim for the ill-fated capture of the schooner Vancouver Belle off the Comandorski Islands in the summer of 1882, for which the St. Petersburg government made payment, as well as for the Caravelle, while the claims of the British government and the claims of the British government and the claims of the British government.

Supernaturalities Affect the Ship.

London, March 19.—The Telegraph correspondent of the Times says that while the Shah was pulling a revolver bolt around his waist Thursday afternoon, the revolver was ejected and the crown of his Majesty was wounded in the arm. It is reported that the Shah was wearing a shirt of mail. The incident will possibly be interpreted as an omen warning His Majesty to avoid enterprise and to leave the management of the empire to his ministers.

Shah Refuses Constitution.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—Telegrams from the Shah refused the cabinet's request for a constitution and threatened the use of military force.

Over 1000 Soldiers.

Bald Knob, Ark., March 19.—A band of soldiers entered the town and discharged their weapons, firing on the citizens, while four of the number attempted to dynamite the bank. Residents venturing from houses were pelted with shot, one was injured, and the dynamite was not recovered. A posse is in pursuit.

An Inhuman Execution.

Calcutta, Va., March 19.—After beating his wife with an axe, Henry Wheat placed her head on a block of wood and chopped it off. He jumped into a well in an attempt at suicide, but was rescued and jailed.

LE ROI MINE CLOSING.

Owners Will Explore Thoroughly For

Rosland, B. C., March 19.—Le Roi mine laid off a number of men recently, though the smaller at Northport is running on usual. It is generally understood that this is done pending the completion of arrangements to thoroughly explore the property down 2,400 or 2,600 feet from the surface. The present level is 1,600 feet, where some rich ore has been mined and shipped during the last six months. Mr. A. J. McMillan, the managing director of the company, made the following statement:

It is quite true that a considerable number of men have been laid off. The fact is that exploration work carried on for several months past in the lower levels of the mine has just up to date proved the extension of the rich ore bodies found and exposed towards the end of last year. This, of course, disappointing, and as it is not economical to ship ore and carry on exploration work upon a small scale, it has been decided to suspend operations until arrangements are made for carrying a large and comprehensive scheme of exploration and development, such as will thoroughly test undeveloped portions of the property, and particularly the south vein from the present 1,600-foot level to an additional depth of about 1,000 feet. Mr. A. J. McMillan, consulting engineer to the company, has been here for some weeks past, and he and I have thoroughly studied the situation. I will leave for London in a few days to confer with the directors as to the best methods to pursue.

A rich strike in the War Eagle and the announcement that the well known Payson mine at Sandon is to be worked on a large scale, are the other leading features in mining circles for the past week.

"So Nervous—I Would at Least Sound."

Miss Minnie Reid, of Teeswater, Ont., says: "I caught a cold, but very foolishly let it run on without taking much notice of it, thinking that it would soon pass off again. Instead of this it fastened upon me until I became downright ill, and when the cold did get better it left me in a terribly weak condition and a misery to get up. My health was quite broken up, and I did not make any improvement. I was tired all the time, lost my appetite entirely, while the pain in my head was at times unbearable. I got so nervous that I would start at the slightest sound, and my life did not seem worth living under such conditions."

"I had almost despaired of getting rid of the trouble, when a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought a box and the results were marvellous. The continual feeling of heaviness which had been a burden to me for so many months, and made me so nervous, was removed as by magic. My appetite returned and I was able to enjoy my food again, and my system was thoroughly built up. From being a sick, broken-down, nervous woman, I made me strong and well. The nervousness has gone and I have had no return."

"If you are run down by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, you will 'pick you up' in good time. An unfailing remedy for Throat, Croup, Lung and Pleurisy."
